AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW

Success of Three-Day Pageant for Andover Guild Results in Material Help for Community Center and Renewed Interest by Townspeople.

A sum exceeding $2000 will be the value of the pot of gold found "At the End of the Rainbow," the three-day pageant given in the town hall for the benefit of the Andover Guild. The money will be used for necessary repairs and alterations on the Guild house on Brook street.

Varied programs were arranged for the three evenings and the appreciative audiences increased in size each succeeding evening until on Saturday the hall was packed to its fullest capacity.

On Friday evening a troupe of favorites from the pages of Mother Goose came to life, and while the well-known line of "Pussy Cat," "Silver Bells and Cockle Shells," "Jack and Jill," "There Was an Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," and many others were sung by Miss Mabel Carter, the characters dramatized the stories.

A cycle of dances by five pupils of Miss Gladys Gilman of Haverhill was the climax of the evening's entertainment. Miss Lillian Ward, a girl of only fourteen years of age, who has already received much praise for her dancing in New York and Boston, gave several dances, showing her ability to be far beyond that of an amateur. The Easter bunny dance by five-year-old Kathleen McMahon of Lawrence was so warmly applauded that she was obliged to give an encore. Other dances were Miss Ruth Parker, Miss Helen Gill and Miss Marjorie Connolly of Haverhill.

The program also included a skit by John Hansen, a negro sketch by Douglas Crawford and Addison B. LeBoutillier, and a burlesque offered by George Haddon, assisted by William McCarthy, John Mahoney, Robert Winters and John Caldwell.

An entertainment made up of numbers from the evening's programs, especially arranged to please the children, was given on Saturday afternoon. This program included the "Dance of the Dolls," the "Dance of the Rainbow," the Pussy Cat from the Mother Goose play, and a group of songs by Miss Ruth Mitchell.

Great interest attached to Saturday evening's entertainment, as it was the first presentation of the pageant.

RECOMMEND AMBULANCE

Selectmen and Finance Committee Will Lend Support to Article to be Inserted in Warrant for March Meeting.

The purchase by the Town of a combination ambulance truck to be used under the direction of the police department was unanimously recommended by representatives of various organizations gathered at the central fire station last Friday evening, and an article to that effect will probably be inserted in the warrant for the next annual town meeting. Members of the finance committee and board of selectmen approved the project and will give the article their support when it is brought before the voters.

The meeting was called by the board of fire engineers and Captain Fred E. Coles explained its purpose. Henry Todd was chosen chairman and expressed the opinion that the town should own an ambulance after which the meeting was open to discussion.

According to the circular letter of invitation it was suggested that funds for the ambulance might be raised by subscription but it was the opinion of those present that it should be purchased by the town.

C. Carlton Kimball speaking for the Red Cross said he did not approve of an ambulance for ambulance purposes only and that the Red Cross did not believe that Andover needed one. Later however he favored the purchase of a combination truck under the direction of the police department.

Henry A. Bodwell, chairman of the town finance committee, said that a truck for police and ambulance work had been recommended by the committee at the last town meeting but was not voted by the citizens. He did not believe the town needed a regular hospital ambulance but he said he was heartily in favor of a combination truck and would again recommend its purchase at the

REFERENDA EXPLAINED

League of Women Voters Listen to Miss Florence Luscomb at Lecture Preparatory to Election on Tuesday.

The referendum questions which are to be acted upon by the voters at the State election on Tuesday were clearly explained by Miss Florence Luscomb who spoke before a meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters held Wednesday evening in Punchard hall.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. Herbert Fraser, Mrs. Frank L. Brigham acted as chairman and introduced the speaker of the evening. Miss Luscomb is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and an architect by profession. She has been active in work for women's suffrage both in New York and Massachusetts.

Miss Luscomb prefaced her explanation of the referenda by saying that although this is a dead year politically, with no great interest in the campaign, yet much interest has centered in the referenda. There are five of these questions which are state wide with several additional questions which will be voted upon locally. None of the latter will appear on the ballot used in Andover.

In speaking of referendum question No. 1, Miss Luscomb explained that it was an amendment to the State constitution. A law which is subject to the referendum does not go into effect for 90 days after it would usually become effective, thus providing time for the preparation of a referendum petition. Emergency laws are provided with a preamble that they may be adopted after a roll call vote of the legislature, which consumes much valuable time. When there is no question of the proposed law meeting with

The season of witches, spooks and ghosts was celebrated by numerous Hallowe'en parties given by organizations as well as individuals.

A very successful Hallowe'en party was held in the parish house of the Free church Monday evening when the members of the Alpha Phi Chi of the church entertained the members of the X. B. K. fraternity.

The supper room was attractively decorated with orange and black crepe paper out of which witches, bats and hobgoblins peered. Three ghosts were stationed in different parts of the basement and told weird tales which made the blood run cold. Each one present was given a favor and fortune cards were distributed.

All sorts of games appropriate to the season were indulged in much to the delight of those assembled. Refreshments of cider, doughnuts, pie and cheese were served. The committee in charge was Priscilla Coleman, chairman; Ruth Saunders, Elsie Livingston, Bertha Cuthill, Ina Petrie.

Among those present were: Mrs. Dana Clark, Jean Dundas, Grace Lake, Margaret Hinchcliffe, Priscilla Coleman, Mary Caldwell, Jennie Walker, Martha Buttrick, Elizabeth Valentine, Ina Rose, Martha Moore, Ruth Saunders, Elsie Brown, Martha Mears, Dorothy Huggins, Ruth Kilburn, Marie McGrath, Helen Otis, Mary Keith, Rita MacFarlane, Rolina Doig, Grace McCrory, Helen Nicoll, Bertha Cuthill, Jessie Coutts, Jean Donald, Mabel Walker, Ethelyn Howard, A. Black, Alfred Harris, Charles Barnett, James Smythe, Henry Otis, William Barnett, James Blissett, Joseph Monahan, Herbert Otis, John Caldwell, John Nicol and Rev. A. S. Wheelock.

The Andover public school teachers' association celebrated Monday night with ghosts, hobgoblins, witches and black cats, and as a finale the raising of John Brown's body which has been "a-mould'ring in the grave" since before the war. It was a spooky

Tributes to Hon. John N. Cole

The following editorial comments are a few of those which appeared in various newspapers throughout the State:

Worcester Telegram, Oct. 21: "An attractive thing about the late John N. Cole was his positive quality. In the matter of men and causes he was definitely and positively for or against. That often brought him criticism and hostility, but it won him friendship and respect. His was a forceful personality which will be missed in Massachusetts public affairs and in Massachusetts politics."

Attleboro Sun, Oct. 18: "John N. Cole was a faithful and a useful state official, and his activity in public life extended over nearly a score of years. In the House as a member and later as speaker and then on various commissions, he gave good service and held opinions that were forceful and were not altered to catch the passing political winds. As a newspaper publisher, he did yeoman service for the Republican party, and The Andover Townsman long ago attained bigger attention than its mere size warranted."

Brockton Enterprise, Oct. 20: "There was genuine sorrow over the death Wednesday in the Massachusetts General Hospital of John N. Cole of Andover, chairman of the State Department of Public Works. It was said by James W. Synan of Pittsfield, fellow commissioner in the division of highways and motor vehicles, that Cole was due to death by the hard work he put in to master the details of his department. As head of the department he was the head of both the divisions, the one just named and the division of waterways and public lands."

"Each of these divisions requires a vast amount of practical, detailed knowledge. In order to be the competent, dominating chairman of each branch, knowing so much about it that neither of his associates could give him any points on law or fact, it was necessary for Mr. Cole to put in many hours of study in which he accumulated a vast fund of information and strengthened his abundant practical common sense for the solution of the problems before him. He was a most efficient chairman, courteous to the full, yet insistent upon the dignity of his position and never belittling his prerogatives or minimizing the respect due by any petitioner to the State official with whom he might be dealing."

"But Mr. Cole was more familiar to the people of the State as the speaker of the House for three years and as unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor. He was born with a taste for public life. He was in his real element when he was in politics. If he had been a winner in his candidacy for the lieutenant governorship, his natural course would have been up to the head of the State ticket."

"His editorials in his weekly newspaper, The Andover Townsman, were filled with sharp and appreciative comment upon State politics of the day. He probably was more quoted all over the state than any other Massachusetts editor outside of Boston."

Worcester Telegram, Oct. 19: "Hon. John N. Cole of Andover, State Commissioner of Public Works, was one of the most widely known men in public life in New England. We always found him to be a very human man—democratic in character, though unfailingly and always a Republican in politics. He frequently addressed gatherings in Wakefield and was a man of the popular type by reason of his frankness. Even his political enemies, for every man has them, could not refrain from calling him 'John' whenever they met him, and this is a pretty good indication that they held personal spite against him. Mr. Cole conducted one of the most successful so-called 'country weeklies' in America. His views, as expressed in the editorial column, were always read with interest and invariably sound. They were always patriotic and loyal to all that stood for the best. He was a great executive and organizer and devoted the best years of his life to public interests. His death is deplored by untold numbers of men in circles and his sound advice and good judgment on public matters will be likewise felt for a long time. Every newspaper man who ever knew him realized that he was their friend."

Holyoke Transcript, Oct. 19: "John N. Cole had done so many things and done them so well, always more or less in the public eye, that his good citizenship was proven by more than one measure. But there was one field where he was unique. For thirty-five years he had been the proprietor of The Andover Townsman, a weekly paper, published in that classic community, once of great theological fame, now of prep school and industrial distinction."

"There are few weekly one-man papers now left. There used to be lots of them. Their part in forming public opinion was one of power. So Mr. Cole could always say the word of power in his own plain-speaking way in his Andover Townsman, and be heard with an amazing degree of influence. It is doubtful if any other one single utterance in the primary contest between Governor Cox and Attorney General Allen carried so far as that spoken by John N. Cole. In the fairest terms he showed that Mr. Allen had acquitted himself splendidly at his task, and at the present time was to go on with his work precisely as that was the way that Governor Cox could best serve his State. Mr. Cole's editorials appeared in practically every paper in the state and was the argument that was uppermost until Mr. Allen himself provided the situation that created the decision."

"Mr. Cole wrote in the frankest man-to-man fashion without much thought for finished style. His philosophy as set forth once a week in The Townsman was plain, honest, sound thinking, with optimism as a very important note. He had great faith in his fellowmen and was ready ways to impress it. That is why he could make a little weekly paper published in Andover known throughout the state."

Malden News, Oct. 18: "Massachusetts suffers a distinct loss in the death of John N. Cole, who is taken away in the height of his practical, successful newspaper man. He knew every branch of the business. He was identified with two newspapers, the Lawrence Daily Telegram, which he sold several years ago, and the Andover Weekly Townsman, with which he had been connected since boyhood. The Townsman was one of the brightest and most widely quoted weeklies in the state and had a job printing business equalled by that conducted by few other newspapers. Mr. Cole became a state-wide character when he entered the House as a member from Andover. For three years he served as speaker, during which time the editor of this paper enjoyed his confidence and developed a friendship for him that has lasted down through the years. Mr. Cole was one of the best public speakers in the state and was widely sought because he always handled a given subject worth listening to. After his career as speaker he was a candidate for lieutenant governor, but was defeated by a narrow margin. Had he won he would have eventually become governor and his name would have been written large upon the pages of our newspapers. Mr. Cole had the ability to serve in less spectacular offices, the last of which was Public Works Commissioner. To this office he gave the best that was in him and reorganized the department into one of the foremost of its kind in the country. Except writing a few editorials for his Andover paper, Mr. Cole's entire time and thought was upon his commissionership. No one who has been associated with him could help admiring his ability and strength of character, and at the same time liking his brilliant and companionable personality."

Lowell Courier-Citizen, Oct. 19: "With the passing of Hon. John N. Cole the Commonwealth loses a citizen of much more than the common usefulness. Mr. Cole had long been in public life, both as a legislator and as an administrative servant of this state. His services have been of surpassing value, more especially of late as the leading spirit in the State's Board of Public Works. A man of unusual foresight, of great resourcefulness, of undoubted good sense and strength, Mr. Cole accomplished more in his unassuming way than many others do whose activities are more spectacular."

"Mr. Cole had the defects of his qualities. He was a stalwart party man with all that uncompromising partisanship implies. It was not always possible to follow his lead in the matter of men and measures. He often seemed to us to reverence unduly the party fetish. But if he was a hard fighter he was a fair fighter. He was intensely practical. He was perfectly outspoken as to what he believed and as to what he intended. He achieved much that was for the benefit of his time and his public. His virtues were infinitely more potent than his failings. He will be missed."

"Mr. Cole's activities as editor and publisher of The Andover Townsman were usually overlooked by reason of his broader fields of endeavor as a public servant. He was nevertheless a valued confidant in the newspaper field, a trenchant writer and a respected expounder of what he conceived to be the proper public opinion. That rather trite and often ironical expression, 'esteemed contemporary,' had unusual fitness in his case, and when Mr. Cole in his capacity as editor turned to the task of advocating or opposing any cause he wielded no mean pen. He will be remembered, however, less as a newspaper worker than as a servant of the public; and the niche which his death leaves vacant will be no easy one to fill."

Gloucester Times, Oct. 21: "Now that John N. Cole is dead, we realize that he was a great public servant, something more than a county politician. More of us ought to have realized it before."

Newburyport News, Oct. 23: "The death of John N. Cole came with startling suddenness. So great is the surgeon's skill that we now confidently expect the recovery of the patient who undergoes a major operation. The State has suddenly waked up to the knowledge that Mr. Cole was more than an ordinary politician. The press is now paying those belated compliments which should have been long ago."

"John N. Cole, thirty years ago, the editor of The Andover Townsman and a job printer, gave his friends no reason to think that he would ever be a personage. To be sure, The Townsman was a high-class paper, showing strong original thinking. It was well liked and patronized by the more than ordinarily cultivated population of that academy town. Mr. Cole was very genial and showed great capacity to work. Suddenly he burst out in the political arena and his strong qualities, tempered by geniality, soon found congenial occupation. He went much farther than his friends ever dreamed he would go. While not ignorant of the arts of a politician, Mr. Cole early showed a high idea of public duty. In a far greater sense than the average State employee he worked for the best interests of the State. A case in point was the removal of the office for the registration of motor vehicles to the Commonwealth Pier. This was a great saving in money and was exactly what any private firm would do for economy's sake. But there was a great outcry against it from employees and some patrons who did not like to journey a little farther than before. But Mr. Cole persisted and made his promises of economy good."

"Here was a man who took public service seriously. With great natural force and much power of vision he planned for the State's good. Such men are far less numerous than they ought to be and it will not be an easy task to replace this cheerful worker."

Springfield Union, Oct. 22: "No one knows who has not been intimately connected with State House affairs, of the tremendous work done by Mr. Cole. He knew the work of every subdivision of his department. He had a marvelous memory for facts and figures. At the same time he had broad vision which made it possible for him to plan large undertakings as well as to care for minor details. He loved public work, loved the power and prominence of State work, loved Massachusetts."

The Revere Journal, Oct. 21: "The death of John N. Cole was not only a distinct loss to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, but is also felt by every newspaperman in the State. Mr. Cole was not only an able editor, but he was a good business man and a far-seeing public official. He was of a most likable disposition and always made friends wherever he was known. His newspaper, The Andover Townsman, was a high-class home weekly and a model local publication in many respects. The writer, after an acquaintance of many years, feels a deep sense of personal loss in the passing of Mr. Cole."

Springfield Union, Oct. 22: One of the lamentable features of the passing away of John N. Cole, Commissioner of Public Works, was the fact that so comparatively few citizens of the Commonwealth knew and appreciated the value of his services to the State. His name and the title of the office he held were, of course, familiar to a majority of the people, but of his duties and the manner in which they were discharged, the general public had only a vague conception. This has been the misfortune of many faithful, conscientious public officials, who, giving the best that was in them to the service of the people, through lack of public understanding were denied the measure of appreciation they deserved, and which, above all things, they would have treasured."

"In no recent instance was this more clearly exemplified than in the case of John N. Cole. It remained for Governor Cox, Speaker Young of the House of Representatives, Secretary Wales of the Department of Public Works, and others who had been in intimate official contact with him to inform the people of the Commonwealth of their debt to Mr. Cole and the great loss the public had sustained in his death. In their eulogies all touched upon three outstanding qualities which distinguished him—courage, ability, and conscientious regard for the public interest."

"It devolved upon him to organize the Department of Public Works, newly created when he was appointed Commissioner, and the thoroughness and efficiency with which this task was performed was characteristic of the man and his methods. His energy, foresight and aggressiveness carried him through many hard situations to the success at which he aimed, and short of which he would not be satisfied to rest. As Speaker Young said of him, 'He never flinched from any task, however unpleasant.' This was not perhaps, the way to 'make friends,' but Commissioner Cole was more intent on making good in the service of the public. The progress achieved under his administration in formulating and carrying out a program for the construction and improvement of State highways, will stand as a monument to him and a testimony of his worth."

"The same qualities which distinguished him as Commissioner of Public Works were in evidence in his earlier public career as a member of the Legislature, as Speaker of the House for three terms, and as chairman of the State Commission on Waterways and Public Lands. A clear understanding of his duties enabled him to perform every task in a spirit of firmness and fairness that commanded the respect of all who knew him."

John Jacob Rogers to Speak in Punchard Hall

A regular meeting of the League of Women Voters will be held in Punchard Hall on Thursday evening, November 9, at 8 o'clock. Hon. John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, member in the House of Representatives for this district will speak on "Congressional Procedure." From his long record in Congress he should have much suggestive material from which to draw. All League members are urged to attend and any interested may join the League by the payment of 50 cents. Single admission will be 35 cents.

The League has planned for this winter a series of lectures on political subjects which should be helpful and interesting to all. Perhaps the program is hardly pretentious enough to be called a School of Politics such as has been held at Radcliffe College and will be held at Clark University, Worcester, but the information on state, national, and town organizations should be enlightening to all new voters. Don't forget the date—next Thursday, November 9, at Punchard Hall.

No Censorship

Citizens of Massachusetts oppose and will vote against censorship of moving pictures, newest and greatest development in the art of publicity, as they would oppose censorship of the press, wisely forbidden by the Constitution, or censorship of books which was ended by the noble fight that Milton made against it. Censorship implies LACK OF SUFFICIENT INTELLIGENCE TO ENABLE THE PUBLIC to decide for itself, and to punish where punishment is deserved, after it is deserved.

Unwise, Un-American

The unwise, un-American, UNINTELLIGENT censorship proposition is a censorship of YOUR INTELLIGENCE, your ability to control your own affairs and protect yourself by appropriate action in the field of moving pictures as in other directions.

The people of Massachusetts need no guardian or censors to direct or guide them mentally. They need no censor appointed by individuals to tell them what they may and may not see, what opinions and facts may be put before them either on the screen or on the printed page.

Massachusetts Needs No Guardian

Massachusetts has led this country in intelligence, education, morality, and sound statesmanship.

It will rely, in the future as in the past, upon police and courts to punish those that violate the law, whether in motion pictures, newspapers, plays, books, or public speakers.

Censorship, as regards books was defeated by Milton in his magnificent fight for freedom expressed in the Aeropagetic. Censorship of newspapers is forbidden by the Constitution of the United States. It will not be permitted by the citizens of Massachusetts in connection with motion pictures, the greatest, latest, most powerful development of publicity.

The courts can attend to violations of law. No need of more complicated public machinery with MORE TAXES.

THE END OF THE RAINBOW

entation of the extravaganza, "The Princess Who Never Laughed," by H. Winthrop Peirce, with music by William Henry Chase, played in public for the first time. The performance amply fulfilled the expectations of the spectators.

"The palace garden at the end of fairy-land" swarmed with a picturesque throng ranging from the king and the princess to the stable boy and beggar girl. Costumes varied in mode and color, songs and dances, filled every moment with interest. The story which made the extravaganza a whole, centered around the princess who never laughed. Though many tried to amuse her, none succeeded until Peter, the kind-hearted, romantic hero who generously gave his last crust to a little old man, became the center of a ludicrous scene which provoked even the princess to laughter, and was rewarded for his kindness by the hand of the princess bestowed by the king.

The varied and interesting costumes which contributed so largely to the excellent effect of the productions were in charge of the following costume committee, headed by Mrs. H. Winthrop Peirce: Mrs. James K. Selden, Mrs. Donald Appleton, Mrs. H. Gilbert Francke, Miss Elizabeth Ward, Miss Marion Selden, Mrs. Alden S. Foss, Miss Sweeney and Miss Margaret Curran.

For the four entertainments more than one hundred persons were in costume. Sixty of the costumes were made under Mrs. Peirce's supervision at her home on Avon street, and for the others requisition was made upon the properties of Mr. Peirce and those of Christ church, which were generously placed at the disposal of the costume committee.

Splendid support was given to the entertainments by the pianists, Mrs. W. Dudley Yates and Mrs. Kerr Sparks, who gave generously of their time for rehearsals as well as for the public performances. The work of Dwyer's orchestra also deserves special mention.

At the close of Saturday evening's performance W. Dudley Yates, president of the board of directors of the Andover Guild, thanked all those present for their cooperation in making this pageant a success and presented Mrs. Eben A. Baldwin, chairman of the pageant committee, and Mrs. H. Winthrop Peirce, chairman of the costume committee, with bouquets of roses. In behalf of the cast of "The Princess Who Never Laughed," with whom she worked untriflingly as accompanist, Nathan C. Hamblin presented Mrs. W. Dudley Yates with a bouquet of roses in token of their appreciation.

Those who served at the various tables were as follows: Basket table decorated in blue—Mrs. Charles D. Thompson, chairman; Mrs. Donald Appleton, Mrs. Alden Foss, Mrs. F. W. H. Stott, Miss Marion Selden, Mrs. James K. Selden and Mrs. William M. Wood, Jr.

Communication

To the Editor of the Townsman:

Those who attended the recent meeting of the South church men's club and heard the comments of our Congressman, John Jacob Rogers, on the confusion of interests in Turkey, must have felt a serious doubt as to whether our Government is doing its manly part in the tragedies of the Near East. Sending food and clothing to the miserable refugees from Turkish cruelty is getting to be too monotonous and some gesture might appropriately be made towards stopping these periodic apoplexies of bloodshedding.

How the French Government can justify itself in supplying guns and bayonets to the Turks by which they have been butchering the Armenians, is beyond our conception. No protest is heard from France, no repudiation; and after it is all done, the French minister Bouillon, embraces and kisses the Turkish general Kemal who is the chief cause of it all.

No economic jealousy of England can justify France in her support of the cruel Turk. When we feel a normal sympathy for the poor Armenians who now suffer under the French-abetted Turk we ask, "Is this the same France which cried to Heaven a few years ago against a similar brutality from the Germans?" And we helped them.

Our Government would be giving voice to a merely rudimentary sense of justice if it should make an open protest to the French Government for her espousal of Turkey, and another open protest to the Anglo Government for permitting her soldiers to commit such outrages against multitudes of defenseless Armenians whose only crime is that they hold the Christian Faith.

Essex County Council Legion Auxiliaries Meets in Andover

Eighteen units from all over Essex County attended the meeting of the Essex County Council of the Women's Auxiliaries of the American Legion held Saturday afternoon in G. A. R. hall. There was the largest number present which has ever been present at a council meeting.

Mrs. Lizzie N. Nye of Swampscott, president of the Essex County Council, was in charge of the meeting and gave a most interesting account of her trip to New Orleans and of the National Convention recently held there. She also spoke in glowing terms of the ability of Mrs. Barnett, who although 70 years of age was elected National President of the Legion Auxiliary.

The Council, in order to raise funds, decided to adopt a Hope Chest and arrangements were left in the hands of Mrs. Chase of Haverhill. Tickets may be had from members of Andover Post Auxiliary. Announcement was made of the big bazaar of the State Auxiliary which will be held in Boston on November 23, 24 and 25.

A social hour followed a very successful meeting and refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Harry Gouck and Mrs. John Henderson.

X. B. K. Rally Night Tuesday

The Andover Grand Council, X. B. K., will hold a meeting in the Free Church parish house Friday evening at 7 o'clock. All members of the council are urgently requested to be present.

Plans for the union rally of all the Andover chapters are complete and it will be held next Tuesday evening in the Free Church parish house at 7 o'clock. There will be an initiation of new members from all the local chapters. Plans for a basketball league will also be discussed. J. Frank Pines, boys' secretary at the Lawrence "Y," will be the speaker.

Vote "Yes" or "No"

With an amendment to the constitution, and four referendum measures on the ballot, the voter approaching the polls next Tuesday has a truly difficult task before him, if he treats his duties as a citizen with the serious consideration which they should receive. The legal manner of wording a referendum or amendment provision on the ballot conveys little information to the voter and it seems suitable to submit at this time a brief summary of each of the five questions, with the hope that it may serve as an aid to the careful marking of each question.

Question 1 provides for an amendment to the constitution. When the initiative and referendum clauses were first introduced into the Massachusetts Constitution, it was provided that laws to which the referendum might be applied should not become effective until ninety days after they had received the Governor's signature, with the idea that this interval should be given to allow the preparation of a referendum petition to be made. Later it was provided that a preamble might be adopted in the case of certain emergency measures which waived the ninety-day clause and made the law effective immediately it received the Governor's signature, such preamble to be voted on by a roll call in both the House and Senate. The amendment to be voted on Tuesday, provides that the roll call shall not be necessary unless asked for by at least two members of the Senate and five members of the House. In other words, it saves the time necessary for a roll call and at the same time places the power to call a vote in that manner in the hands of a very small number of either house. There is no public opposition to the amendment.

Question 2 provides for a referendum on a bill which makes it possible to sue or be sued by a voluntary association of more than five members, while it expressly excludes the attachment or execution of the property of any individual member of the association in any such suit. The Federal laws provide for the possibility of a suit against such an association on the basis of an illegal act in the eyes of the national constitution and laws. The State law which is submitted for referendum provides that suit may be brought by or against such an association for any action illegal according to the State constitution or statutes. The law, if passed over the referendum, will affect all unincorporated social, business and labor organizations in the state.

Question 3 provides for a pre-run censorship of all motion pictures shown within the state, under the supervision of the State Commissioner of Public Safety, and provides for a fine for the showing of any pictures not stamped with the official seal of the censor. The Commissioner may lay down certain general rules governing the pictures which may be shown in the state, but these must be approved by the Governor and his Council. A practically statewide opposition has arisen to this law, it being argued that the placing of absolute control over such a tremendous educational factor as the motion pictures, in the hands of one man, is a very dangerous procedure.

Question 4 provides for a state enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. At the present time, the State law prohibits only the sale of intoxicating liquors, and defines the maximum alcoholic content as 21 per cent. The law submitted for referendum practically duplicates the Federal provisions in the Volstead Act, making it a criminal offense to manufacture, sell, barter, transport, import, export, deliver, furnish or possess intoxicating liquors as provided in the act, and defines the alcoholic content as one-half of one per cent. In brief, it raises the number of prohibition enforcement agents from approximately seventy (the quota of Federal police at present deployed in the state) to about 5000 (the total number of state and local policemen).

Question 5 provides for a referendum on a bill which states that a District Attorney shall be a resident of the district in which he is appointed and shall be a member in good standing of the Bar of the Commonwealth. The bill is a backfire from the disbarment proceedings which were in the courts last spring. It should be noticed that each question is put in the positive. It reads "Shall a law be approved?" If you wish to negate the referendum and approve the law, vote yes, if the opposite, vote no. A "yes" on the first question will pass the amendment. A "yes" on the second question will make it legal to sue or be sued by a voluntary association. A "yes" on the third question will legalize movie censorship. A "yes" on the fourth question will approve state prohibition enforcement, and a "yes" on the fifth question will limit the District Attorney's office to members of the bar.

It is to be hoped that Andover voters will give careful thought to each question and will check their ballots on Tuesday with a full realization of what they are voting for.

Editorial Cinders

With each recurrence of the fall elections it becomes necessary to restate the fact that there are too few people who take their duties as citizens seriously. Time and again, we have heard the remark made that one vote means very little against thousands, and have seen the statement used as attempted explanation of failure to cast a ballot at an election. Just as the tremendous force of "public opinion" is made up of a combining of thousands of tiny bits of force, so the true power of the ballot comes only from its universal use. The men or women who neglect the opportunity to vote on Tuesday will have plenty of company, if next week's election follows the course of past ones, but they may be assured that they are laying themselves open to charges of treason to their state and country. Vote, and vote early!

Within the next few months, it will fall to the lot of President Harding, to appoint three new judges to the bench of the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Associate Justice Pitney is shortly retiring from the bench, former Justice Clark is out, and Mr. Justice Day is ceasing his labors to assume direction of the War Claims Adjustment division. It has been seldom the case in the history of the court, that a President has had the necessity of appointing three justices in the course of one term, and it is to be hoped that the President will render a genuine service to the country in fulfilling this duty.

Society Over One Hundred Years Old

The Samaritan Female Society of Andover and Cambridge held its annual meeting at the home of the treasurer, Mrs. William Arnold, the president, Mrs. E. Y. Hincks having given a luncheon to the Andover members. Among those from Andover who attended the meeting were Mrs. William H. Ryder, Mrs. Matthew S. McCurdy and Mrs. Abby F. Pease. Mrs. J. W. Churchill is also a member of the society. The primary object of the Samaritan Society, formed in 1817 is to make gratuitous provision for the care, nursing and medical attendance while sick of such indigent students in Phillips Academy and the Theological Seminary, as are preparing for the gospel ministry.

Chamber of Commerce to Hold Banquet

The Andover Chamber of Commerce will hold a big membership banquet on Thursday evening, November 16, in the town hall, and at that time it is expected that every business man, professional man, and every industry in town will be included in the Chamber membership.

At the meeting last night in the Andover Club rooms progress was made in the permanent organization and a nominating committee was appointed to bring in a list of thirty names from which fifteen directors will be chosen at the annual meeting, the date of which will be settled at the next meeting of the Chamber which will be held in the Andover Club rooms on Thursday evening, November 23. All members who join before that meeting will be eligible to take part in the annual meeting and also to be chosen as directors. The nominating committee elected by ballot was William C. Crowley, Samuel P. Hulme, W. Dudley Yates, James E. Greeley, E. T. Hethington.

Samuel P. Hulme reported for the membership committee and stated that to date the names of eighty-nine men had been secured. He said that in seeking members he had found that the chief obstacle was that the men approached wanted to know what the Chamber intended to do. Walter S. Coleman and Dr. Charles E. Abbott asked the same question and the latter said that the only criticism he had heard was that no definite purpose had been announced. He also urged the starting of the Chamber along right lines, to include every activity in the town, regardless of section, and in this way the Chamber would be a benefit and a permanent thing.

The following individuals and concerns are members of the Chamber:—Dr. Charles E. Abbott, Dr. William H. Simpson, Dr. Edward C. Conroy, Louis H. Huntress, E. T. Hethington, David S. Lindsay, James E. Greeley, Charles S. Burchan, John H. Soehrens, James W. Daly, H. H. Kemick, George A. Christie, Charles A. Hill, Sam Loone, Andrew Basso, Albert F. Rivard, A. A. Lewis, Philip L. Hardy, Carl E. Elander, Samuel P. Hulme, George L. Averill, W. J. Doherty, Charles F. Emerson, Leonard E. Elliott, L. W. Colby, W. J. Reynolds, William Daly, H. F. Chase, Harry J. Hyland, Albert Halley, James Dempsey, Jr., C. J. Francis, Edward H. Berry, John Donovan, W. J. Morrissey, Joseph A. Rand, John E. Pitman, Franklin H. Stacey, John Stewart, Dr. W. Dacre Walker, E. M. Lundgren, Paul Simeone, John Ferguson, John Vogtatzakis, Dana W. Clark, John F. McDonough, Henry E. Miller, Charles W. Flanders, Emory E. Trott, Frank S. McDonald, P. J. Barrett, Joseph I. Pitman, John S. Job, David L. Coutts, Patrick J. Scott, Gertrude M. Fraser, Louise Simeone, William Simeone, William Minuchi, Colonial Theatre, Hardy & Ross, Capital Lunch, Hiller Company, Terry Press, Andover Candy Kitchen, Lyle Brothers, People's Ice Company, Essex Mercantile Association, W. H. Coleman Company, Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Cross Coal Company, Lawrence Gas Company, The Andover Press, Rogers & Angus, Buchanan & McNally, Charles Hoffman, Cambridge Mutual Fire Ins. Co.

The membership committee plans to get the name of every other business man or concern in town, not found in the above list, before the banquet on November 16. The committee in charge of the banquet is Samuel P. Hulme, L. M. Huntress, James E. Greeley, Samuel Resnik, Harry J. Hyland, William C. Crowley, Franklin H. Stacey, George A. Christie, David L. Coutts, and Mark Foxon.

Special Town Meeting Called

Matters connected with the Shawheen Village school problem call for a special town meeting to be held Monday evening, November 13, at half past seven, and three of the eight articles in the warrant relate to this matter. Two other articles deal with land problems in Shawheen Village.

The report of the joint committee of the school committee and selectmen will be acted upon, after which the voters will be called upon to accept the plot of ground offered for school purposes by William M. Wood. The next step toward a new building will be taken under article three which asks for an appropriation of $1000 with which to employ an architect and prepare preliminary plans.

Article four proposes that the name of Warwick street be changed to William street.

The disposal of the buildings on the land recently purchased from the Cunningham heirs will be voted upon. This property was acquired with a view to improving the appearance of Andover's park system as well as adding to the area of the Playstead and it is proposed that the buildings be torn down.

Articles six and seven concern proposed roads in Shawheen village designed to facilitate access to land not on regularly accepted roadways. The owners offer land for the proposed roads, and the petitioners ask for appropriations to put them in condition for travel.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks for the sympathy extended to us during our recent bereavement and for the beautiful flowers. "Friends in time of need are friends indeed."

ROBERT B. BURTT and FAMILY

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors who so gladly showed their sympathy for our bereavement at the loss of our beloved son and brother, and also for the many spiritual bouquets and beautiful floral tributes offered.

Abbot Academy Notes

Word was received on Saturday night of the death of Madame Florence Stelle in Wallingford, Connecticut. Madame Stelle was for several years a member of the French Department, and her wit and charm as well as her great ability as a teacher make her loss deeply felt.

Miss Bailey spoke at the regular Sunday evening service on "Desiring the best things," closing with a tribute to Madame Stelle.

On Wednesday afternoon Miss Chickering gave a talk on the coming elections, both in this country and England, and touched briefly on the present situation in Italy and the Near East.

An exciting hockey game was played on Wednesday afternoon between the first hockey team, and a specially selected team from Andover and nearby towns. Miss Marion Selden, Miss Irene Odlin, Mrs. Phyllis Brooks Stevens, Mrs. Alden Foss, and Mrs. Gilbert Francke were among the Andover players.

Saturday is the day selected for the annual friendly contests between Bradford and Abbot. This year the Abbot girls are the hostesses. The Andover girls represented are Miss Doris Holt, Miss Ruth Pritchard and Miss Nettie Pritchard on the basketball teams, and Miss Elizabeth Flag, Miss Natalie Bartlett, Miss Emily Holt, and Miss Natalie Page on the hockey teams.

Next Tuesday evening there will be a MacDowell recital in Davis Hall, given by Arthur Bassett of Worcester and on the following Tuesday evening there will be a recital by members of the Abbot music department. Both these recitals will be open to the public.

HALLOWE'EN FESTIVITIES

time while candles gave the only light, but later, under the glare of the modern electric light, gay decorations of golden pumpkins and Halloween witches made an attractive scene. Miss Nancy Hird, chief of the witches, held sway and directed the Halloween stunts which included ducking for apples.

Many came in costume and Mrs. Eugene V. Lovely, as second witch, had a real live black cat as her attendant. Miss Florence I. Abbott was the third witch. Others in costume were Miss Hynes, as a skeleton, Miss Eunice Stack, Miss Lillian Fox, Miss Portia Clough, ghosts; Miss Clara A. Putnam, Mrs. Cecilia Derrah, hobgoblins; Miss Florence Prevost, black cat; Miss Tutein, Spanish Senorita; Miss Etta M. Dodge, Southern Mammy. The festivities opened with a grand march through devious ways in total darkness to the chamber of horrors in the "cavern" which afterwards proved a most inviting and hospitable shelter.

Halloween refreshments were served under the direction of Miss Portia Clough, supervisor of domestic science, and included tomato rabbit, doughnuts, cheese, sweet cider, coffee, popcorn balls and fruit.

The affair was in charge of the officers of the association: Miss Nancy Hird, president; Miss F. I. Abbott, vice president; Miss Helen Hartford, treasurer; Miss Clara A. Putnam, secretary, assisted by Misses Lillian J. E. Fox, Miss Alice Coutts and Mrs. Margaret S. Tate.

The boys of Rev. S. A. Wheelock's Sunday school class enjoyed Halloween games in one of the new class rooms of the Free church Monday evening. Ice cream, cake, cider and apples were enjoyed. Those who were present were: David Keith, William Valentine, Wendell Mitchell, William Bradford, Alexander Brown, John McLaughlin, David Sim and Duncan Bissett.

At the home of Miss Rachel Somerville on Maple avenue Monday evening a jolly company of employees of the Merrimack Insurance company braved the witches and tested the value of Halloween games in deciding their fates. Everyone had a delightful time doing the various stunts required. Refreshments which consisted of sandwiches, cider, doughnuts, coffee, popcorn balls, peanuts and candy were served.

Those present were: Anne Ness, Adah Hall, Alice Barrett, Bertha Ladd, Edith Kendall, Marion Abbott, Sadie MacLeish, Esther Batchelder, Helen Christensen, Ruth Cates, Katherine Berry, Jean MacLeish, Laura Juhlman, E. Louise Hardy, Gladys Huse, Ray Somerville, Edwin Nicol, Sidney Carter, Louis Fieger, Arthur Emery, Harold Godfrey, Fred Cheever, William McIntyre, Raymond Schlapp, Mal Darcy, B. H. Campbell, Robert Clement, Philip Clement, Charles Renick.

The regular meeting of the Social Twelve was held Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Lizzie C. Jenkins at her home on Elm street. Whist was played at three tables.

There were Halloween decorations of black and orange and black and white and bitter sweet were also effectively used.

Refreshments of doughnuts, cheese, pumpkin pie and sweet cider were served.

The first prize was awarded to Mrs. Jenkins, the second prize to Mrs. Frank D. Valentine and the consolation prize to Mrs. Thomas Rhodes.

A very enjoyable Halloween party was held Wednesday evening when the W. R. J. club and friends were entertained at the home of one of its members, Miss Sarah Hilton. There were costumes of every description and favors galore. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion with black and yellow crepe paper, witches, pumpkins and Halloween lanterns.

The program of the evening consisted of selections by the W. R. J. Exhibition orchestra.

Halloween games were played and prizes were given as follows: Miss Julia Schofield, marshmallow contest; Miss Jean McShane, doughnut contest; Misses Eva Walsh and Katherine Hurly, pop-corn contest.

The judges decided after a very close contest for the funniest costume to award two first prizes, one to Miss Clara Hitcher as The Village Belle and the other to Miss Julia Schofield as Old Black Joe, as all agreed neither out-did her partner in costume, wit or acting.

Supper was then served, dancing and singing enjoyed and the party broke up singing "Auld Lang Sang," and "Good Night Ladies."

Those present: Misses Julia Schofield, Elizabeth Hurly, Mac Hurly, Anna Winters, Jean McShane, Ethel Hilton, Gertrude Hilton, Katherine Daly, Katherine Hurly, Jennie Sweeney, Elsie Sullivan, Mary Sweeney, Doris Hilton, Louise Cunningham, Elizabeth Hilton, Bertha Hilton, Mary Porter and Eva Walsh; Mrs. Margaret

Fairweather, Mrs. Jos. Hilton, Mrs. John Garstide, Mrs. Herbert Sullivan, Mrs. Charlotte Kydd, Mrs. John True, Mrs. Hector Keith, Mrs. Thomas Campbell, Mrs. Neil Nicol, Mrs. Charles Axon.

The Sophomore class at Pynchard summoned ghosts and witches to help them entertain the Freshman class in the school hall last evening. Not only were the spirits seen about the hall but the dimly lighted stage during the "Halloween Adventure" they had high carnival. This boarding school play based on the legend of Sleepy Hollow proved most entertaining to the audience which was in turn thrilled by the weird scenes and provoked to bursts of laughter.

The play was directed by Miss Fox and Miss Tutein of the faculty. The cast was as follows:

Miss Nossome
Neil Norton
Gloria Gould
Gwen and Indian Squaw
Gail and Pomona
Verda
Frieda
Bess
Wee Willie
Tom
Murray Reynolds
Jack and Napoleon
Arch and the German Doctor
Teddy and Rip Van Winkle
Fred and Ichabod
Major Andre
Monarch
Skeleton

After the play, dancing was enjoyed until ten o'clock, music being furnished by Barnes' orchestra.

Refreshments of punch and cake were served.

Miss Eleanor Ramsdell and Margaret W. Scott tendered a Halloween party to a number of their friends at the home of Mrs. H. A. Ramsdell, Summer street. The decorations were by the young hostesses and were very effective. The guests came in costumes of the Halloween season and games were enjoyed. Refreshments were served. Those present were: Margaret Ruth Perry, Theresa Proctor, Jean Edmonds, Miss Alice Weare, Mrs. H. A. Ramsdell, Eleanor Ramsdell, Margaret W. Scott.

The barn on the P. W. Partridge estate on Walnut avenue was the scene of a very pretty Halloween party Tuesday evening. It was attractively decorated with crepe paper, autumn leaves, witches, goblins and other things appropriate to the festivities. A number of young people under the chaperonage of Mrs. Partridge and Mrs. Chase gathered to enjoy the evening's fun, which included Halloween games and stunts, and dancing to music by a victrola.

Among those present were: Jemima Walker, Martha Buttrick, Jean Donald, Alice Chase, Grace Chapman, Dorothy Wanamaker, Annie Swenson, Helen Otis, Bancroft Pratt, Russell Carter, Ashley Barnes, Henry Otis, Joseph Wright, Walter Bassett, Edward Dodge, Melvin Haynes, Allan Buttrick, John Frederickson, Wesley Gates, Robert Partridge and Reginald Whitcomb. Refreshments of candy, cider, apples, coffee, doughnuts, and frankfurts were served.

The Andover Mothers' club held a party in Pynchard hall Tuesday evening and each of the members brought two or three guests to share the fun. The mothers were all in costume and marched into the hall led by Mrs. C. S. Buchan, and followed by Mrs. Thomas Platt as the witch. Mrs. Platt's make-up was complete, black cat, long flowing locks, broom and witch cap, and she was greeted with loud applause. The others came dressed as clowns, gypsies, and harlequins, and to complete the setting, Mrs. Otis Keith was dressed as a ghost.

A program of entertainment was furnished by Miss Mabel Marshall, Miss Ina Petrie and Miss Mary Caldwell, which was much enjoyed. Miss Marshall gave several readings appropriate to Halloween, Miss Caldwell sang several selections including "Dawn" and "The Dear Old Home O' Mine," and Miss Petrie gave violin solos, accompanied on the piano by Miss Isabel Caldwell.

Halloween games were played and the regulation stunts indulged in and refreshments were served in the domestic science room consisting of sandwiches, coffee, doughnuts and cheese.

The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Hattie Hatch, Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. William Waycott; refreshments, Mrs. Thomas Platt, Mrs. John Collins, Mrs. Otis Keith, Mrs. F. M. Foster; favors, Mrs. Alexander Crockett, Mrs. Ralph Coleman.

A prize of a beautiful water set was awarded to Mrs. Platt for the best costume and a cut glass vase to Mrs. Ralph Coleman for the next best costume. Everyone had a most enjoyable time.

A Democratic rally will be held in the Town hall this evening at half past seven. The speakers will be William A. Gaston, Mayor Curley, John P. Mulholland and Richard A. Gibbons.

REFERENDA EXPLAINED

general approval referendum No. 1 provides that such a roll call may be omitted, unless petitioned for by two members of the senate and five members of the House.

This provision for facilitating legislative procedure has met with no opposition and the majority of voters will probably vote "Yes."

Question No. 2 has many arguments both pro and con, and Miss Luscomb presented them most impartially. This referendum provides that voluntary associations of five or more members may legally be held responsible for their acts and sue or be sued as if they were incorporated bodies. This would affect all clubs, fraternal orders and labor organizations.

The course of law may be so delayed that though a labor organization might finally win its suit, its funds could be so tied up by litigation as to render it quite ineffective until after the strike was settled. It would be within the bounds of possibility for an industrial spy, such as a spy system is said to be already in existence, to incite violence which would bring on such a suit. Labor also contends that employers can cooperate in small groups without even a "voluntary association" while hundreds and thousands of employees must of necessity organize at least informally in order to be at all effective and would therefore be liable to suit while employers would not.

The arguments of those who favor referendum No. 2 are that every organization should be legally responsible for its actions, that it is aimed only against wrong doing, that it would only make conditions in the state conform to those outside the state (voluntary associations now being liable to suit under federal law), and that it is only labor organizations which are offering any objections.

Miss Luscomb is of the opinion that although there are almost unanswerable arguments in favor of the referendum it should not be adopted until there have been reforms in our court system and methods of judicial procedure.

Referendum No. 3 which has to do with the inspection and regulation of moving pictures has excited more discussion as it is of interest to the 4,000,000 people in Massachusetts who attend the theatres weekly. Many persons believe that there are already adequate laws for the inspection and regulation of moving pictures if they are properly enforced. The national board of review in New York, an unofficial body consisting of 125 members, has functioned for the last ten years. The mayor or selectmen of any town may at their discretion forbid the showing of any objectionable film or any individual may appeal to the court. The difficulty with this method of regulation is that public authorities seldom take drastic action except in case of overwhelming protest and the effect of appeal to the court would be so slow in its results that the picture would already have been seen by hundreds.

The new law would provide for a review by a Commissioner of Public Safety who might disapprove any film or part of a film considered obscene, indecent, immoral or inhuman, or which tends to debauch or corrupt morals or incite to crime. This decision is subject to appeal and to the approval of the Governor and his council of nine members. Six states and Canada now have such censorship. The proportion of films cut has been reduced from 75 to 40 per cent.

The feeling of many of the patrons of the moving picture theatre is that such regulation is un-American, that no one man is big enough, broad enough or sufficiently unbiased to be competent for such a responsibility and that he would be open to the temptation of graft. Other arguments against censorship are that this would be another step toward centralized government and that people cannot be made moral by legislation.

Miss Luscomb spoke very briefly on the fourth question which has already been the subject of so much discussion. She pointed out that its adoption would make the state law conform with the federal law making illegal not only the sale of liquor but also its manufacture and transportation. The federal law demands a beverage of less than one-half of one percent alcohol while the present state law countenances two and three-fourths per cent. The adoption of this referendum would give local police authority to enforce the federal law whereas the 40 federal officers in the State of Massachusetts are entirely inadequate to cope with the situation. As there is only one federal court where offenders may be tried it is already several thousand cases and several years behind, a fact which encourages violation of the law.

Concerning the last question as to whether or not the District Attorney shall be a member of the Bar of the Commonwealth, the speaker was of the opinion that since it was required that a man be a member of the Bar in order to practice law privately, it was even more necessary that he should have that standing in order to serve the Commonwealth.

Miss Luscomb's talk was very illuminating and she made a sincere endeavor to present impartial arguments on both sides of each question.

The next meeting of the league to be held Thursday evening, November 9, will be addressed by Hon. John Jacob Rogers who will speak on "Congressional Procedure."

The fire department made two calls late Wednesday afternoon for brush fires on the Peter D. Smith land off Shawheen road. The damage was slight.

OLIN B. MCCARTHY

Full military honors were accorded Olin Bernard McCarthy, ex-service man, whose funeral was held Monday morning from the late home on Red Spring road. The casket, draped with the American flag, was carried on a caisson to St. Augustine's church where solemn high mass of requiem was offered at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fr. P. J. Campbell was celebrant, assisted by Rev. Fr. Thomas P. Fogarty as deacon and Rev. Fr. John A. Nugent as sub-deacon. St. Augustine's choir sang the mass and at the close of the services, Miss Annie G. Donovan, organist, played the funeral march. The burial was in the family lot in St. Augustine's cemetery, where last military honors were accorded him.

The bearers were Harry Rodgers, James B. G. Valentine, Roy Sharpe, George Killackey, John Auchterlonie, John J. Sullivan, William McDermott and Frank Nicoll. The color bearer was Wendell Kydd and the guards were John Dugan, navy; and Ray Wilson, army, of Andover post 8, American Legion.

The firing squad was: Frank P. Markey, Alexander Ness, Herbert Lyte, Frank J. Hughes, Timothy J. Madden, Howard Conkey, Leo J. Driscoll, and William Renny. Bartlett H. Hayes, commander of Andover post, A.L., was in charge. The bugler was Fred Foss, who sounded taps.

The deceased was one of the first Andover boys to enlist in the World war. He joined the Andover naval unit organized by Horace Hale Smith in Andover on April 9, 1917. He served in the navy until March 18, 1918, when he received his honorable discharge. He had worked for the Coleman garage in Andover for four years, but was forced to give up three months ago. Two weeks ago he went to Parker Hill hospital and died last Thursday.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. McCarthy, and four brothers and five sisters.

In respect to his memory the flags were at half mast on all the public buildings of Andover until after the funeral.

WILLIAM BURTT

To the many friends of "Billy Burtt," as those who knew him best liked to call him, the news of the sudden ending of his life came as a shock and a wave of sympathy went out to the bereaved family. Usually sunny tempered and smiling, ever willing to do a good turn for a neighbor or a friend, he will be missed in the family and parish. Born in Andover twenty-one years ago, he was educated in Andover schools, taking also one year at Essex Agricultural school in Haverhill. Since leaving the agricultural school he has spent most of the time as helper to his father who is Superintendent of West Parish Cemetery.

He leaves to mourn him, his father Albert Burtt; a brother, Edward of North Andover; three sisters, Mrs. Herbert Rose of Walpole, Mrs. Jennie Moran; and Eva of Walpole.

The funeral services were held at the home on Lowell street on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. Newman Matthews, pastor of the West Parish church. A large number of friends were present. The floral offerings were many and very beautiful. Burial was in the family lot in the West Parish cemetery.

Ladies' Aid to Give Play at Annual Fair

The Congregational Church Ladies' Aid society have big plans made for their annual fair, which will be held on Thursday evening, Nov. 9.

Members of the organization will give a play which will be one of the big features of the evening's entertainment.

The play is a five-character sketch and is entitled: "When Women Vote," and a splendid cast will take part. The cast is as follows:

Mrs. Jamerson, "Queen of Clubs," an apostle for suffrage Mrs. Joseph Stott

Helen Jamerson, her daughter

Mrs. Delano, a wealthy lady, homeless from choice Mrs. I. Shaw

Mrs. Brownell, mother of six Mrs. Ada Wansamaker

Hannah, old-fashioned New England "help" Mrs. George Sparks

Besides the above sketch, a number of instrumental selections will be given by local talent.

The members of the above cast have all taken part in many plays given by the society in the past that have always been successful and this one promises to excel others previously given.

Besides the above program, there will be a spruce, candy, mystery, fancy, Thanksgiving and kitchen tables which will contain a large assortment of useful articles that can be purchased.

Ice cream will also be for sale.

Celebrate Sixteenth Birthday

A delightful birthday party was held Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Shaw, High street, in honor of the sixteenth birthday of their son, Gardner.

The rooms were appropriately decorated in Halloween fashion with black and orange draped from the ceiling in long streamers. The happy young man, who is a member of the parlor forming in line and with Doris Shaw at the piano, marched to the dining room, where the table, set for 20 guests, was artistically decorated and beautiful favors placed for each guest. Another feature of the occasion was the two birthday cakes adorned with eight candles each.

From 8 o'clock until late in the evening numerous games were played and dancing enjoyed.

Gardner was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Those present were: Mildred Buck, Muriel Gilbert, Barbara Loomer, Gertrude Clark, William McIntyre, Henry Otis, Frank Petty, Melvin Haynes, Charles Haynes, Clyde Meigs, George Haggerty, Carl Wells, Richard Ryder, Helen Otis, Jimmie Walker, Gardner Shaw, Viola Cushman, Arlene Miller, Ruth May, Eleanor Hall.

Christ Church Notes

The Thanksgiving sale will be held as usual this year by the Woman's Guild. This is always a pleasant social occasion as well as an opportunity to help the Guild financially, and the Tuesday before Thanksgiving is a date for all who are interested in the Guild's life to keep in mind.

The girls of Miss Brown's and Mrs. Southworth's classes in the church school will meet on Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Rectory to organize a new Guild for girls who have "graduated" from St. Catherine's. They will have charge of preparing the "Calendar" envelopes and be ready for several other helpful deeds in Parish life.

The Parish House was most tastefully decorated last Monday for the Halloween party of the Girls Friendly Society and Phillips Brooks chapter. The games made a lot of fun and the evening was greatly enjoyed by the fifty young people who were present.

next town meeting. He believed the town should purchase it and maintain it under the police department, and the thing to do was to arouse public sentiment and put it across at the next annual town meeting.

Walter S. Donah, chairman of the board of selectmen, said he favored an ambulance of the combination type and would again recommend its purchase.

Frank M. Smith, chief of police, spoke of the few urgent calls for an ambulance but favored a combination truck. He was of the opinion that it was for the town to purchase it and not for individuals.

George H. Winslow, Charles F. Emerson, Daniel H. Poor, Samuel R. Harris and Elmer E. Philbrick and Frank S. McDonald all spoke in favor of the purchase of a combination ambulance truck by the town.

Those present were: Selectmen: W. S. Donald, Charles Bowman.

Charles F. Emerson, Chief of the fire department; Harry Wells, engineer.

She thrust in his hand the single sheet. He read:

"... just wanted you to know you're actually rid of me. I've heard from her in Brazil. She ran out of money and thought of me, and her lawyer wrote to me. I've never been any good—Dwight would tell you that if his pride would let him tell the truth once in a while. But there ain't anything in my life makes me feel as bad as this. I s'pose you couldn't understand and I don't myself. Only the sixteen years keeping still made me think she was gone sure. But you were so downright good, that's what was the worst. do you see what I want to say."

Cornish read it all and looked at Lulu. She was grave and in her eyes there was a look of dignity such as he had never seen them wear, incredible dignity.

"He didn't lie to get rid of me—and she was alive, just as he thought she might be," she said.

"I'm glad," said Cornish.

"Yes," said Lulu. "He isn't quite so bad as Dwight tried to make him out."

It was not of this that Cornish had been thinking.

"Now you're free," he said.

"Oh, that..." said Lulu.

She replaced her letter in its envelope. "Now I'm really going," she said.

Good-bye for sure this time. Her words trailed away. Cornish had laid his hand on her arm.

"Don't say good-bye," he said.

She looked at him mutely.

"Do you think you could possibly stay here with me?"

"Oh!" said Lulu, like no word.

He went on, not looking at her. "I haven't got anything. I guess maybe you've heard something about a little something I'm supposed to inherit. Well, it's only five hundred dollars."

His looks searched her face, but she hardly heard what he was saying.

"That little Warden house—it don't cost much—you'd be surprised. Rent, I mean. I can get it now. I went and looked at it the other day, but then I didn't think—" he caught himself on that. "It don't cost near as much as this store. We could furnish up the parlor with pianos—"

He was startled by that "we," and began again:

"That is, if you could ever think of such a thing as marrying me."

"I don't know," said Lulu, "I don't know!"

Why don't you say yes?"

"There's only this about that," said he. "Of course, if you loved him very much, then I'd ought not to be talking this way to you. But I didn't think—"

She said: "I wanted somebody of my own. That's the reason I done what I done. I know that now."

"Look here," he said, "I'd ought to tell you. I'm awful lonesome myself."

This is no place to live. And I guess living so is one reason why I want to get married. I want some kind of a home."

"Of course," she said.

"Could you risk it with me?" Cornish asked her. "There's nobody I've seen, as much as I do you. I—I was engaged to a girl once, but we didn't get along. I guess if you'd be willing to try me, we would get along."

"Isn't there somebody—"

"Look here. Do you like me?"

"Oh, yes!"

"Well enough—"

"It's you I was thinking of," said Lulu. "I'd be all right."

"Then!" Cornish cried, and he kissed her.

"Missing Husbands," a Metro special feature, is to be the main feature of an attractive program at the Colonial Theatre for two days, Monday and Tuesday, November 6, 7. This unusual drama has been elaborately adapted from the sensational novel, "L'Atlantide," by that master of French fiction, Peirre Benoit. It has been the sensation of Europe for some time past.

A woman, as beautiful as Mona Lisa and as compelling in charm as Cleopatra, is found in the character of Antinea, queen of an oasis kingdom in the Sahara, who played with men's hearts as she toyed with the tropical flowers that grew within her gardens. Two explorers of the French army meet her and she falls in love with one, who repulses her advances. The other, insanely jealous, kills his comrade, only to find that his love for Antinea is dead. He attempts to kill her and then flees into the desert. After being found and again declared fit for service, he, with two brother officers, set out on the sandy trail to find the desert queen, whom he realizes he loves and cannot forget.

The settings in "Missing Husbands," especially in the palace of Antinea, are superb and breathe in extreme extravagance the splendor and grandeur of the old world. Local patrons should indeed congratulate themselves on being so fortunate as to see such a remarkable and tremendously successful picturized novel as "Missing Husbands."

LAWRENCE COLONIAL

Next week, which includes both Election Day and Armistice Day, the Lawrence Colonial Players offer a bill especially selected to please the big holiday audiences—a story of the great outdoors, "Pierre of the Plains," a romantic drama of the Great Canadian North, written by Louis Frechette, the "Canadian poet laureate," an intensely interesting and true story of happenings in the Hudson Bay country gathered from the records of that famous organization, the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, with a love plot which is most absorbing.

A play of the country that lies "north of 53" gives rare opportunity for elaborate and picturesque scenic settings, of which the artist will take full advantage. All scenic artists love to paint wild woodland and mountain scenes, and from this point the production will surely be attractive. The story is filled with human interest, and the characters are human, too; Pierre, the happy-go-lucky, handsome French-Canadian trapper and guide; Father Coraine, who conducts the sanctuary of the plains; Tom Redding of the mounted police; the Indian Covenkatchie and Jeanne Galbraith, the pet of the plains. Mr. Charles Dingle of the Players, has often played Pierre and loves the part, which is one in which humor and pathos are blended. Election returns will be given from the stage Tuesday evening and there is no advance in prices for the Armistice holiday performances.

TREMONT TEMPLE

D. W. Griffith's "One Exciting Night" has taken a firm hold on the interest of New England playgoers, and bids fair to outlive even his "Orphans of the Storm" and "Way Down East." The new Griffith drama started its world premiere and Boston at the Tremont Temple early in October. It is now in the second month of presentation to increasing crowds and a wide patronage that extends in a hundred mile radius around Boston.

The new play is a story of twelve hours' doings in a haunted house, followed by a chase of the principal characters through a wild hurricane of the most tempestuous exhibit of Nature's that has ever been delineated by a producer. The climax is said by the Boston and New York press to outdo the celebrated scene of "Way Down East."

For the role of the heroine Griffith selected Miss Carol Dempster, one of his ablest screen stars, who gives a wonderful portrayal of a fearless and lovable girl, American 1922 type. Other really stellar actors in the cast are Henry Hull, Morgan Wallace, Frank Sheridan and C. H. Croker-King.

The Boston press are discussing the clever use that Griffith has made of mystery motifs, including no less than five suspected "villains" and also the handling of Miss Dempster as a "hidden" character. The people think the dark comedy of piece to be the most amusing of any staged in Boston. Porter Strong in the role of poor Romeo Washington, the negro scared by "ghosts," has scored a big hit. Performances are given twice each weekday at 2:15 and 8:15, with full orchestra and stage effects. Out-of-town patrons if they desire, may obtain seats promptly by mail order.

Andover's Union Christmas Service

Plans for the thirteenth annual Christmas service are already well developed. The Episcopal, Baptist, Free, and South churches each arrange for this community service in town. The South is responsible for it this year, and a Pageant of the Nativity is being arranged, to be given in the town hall Sunday evening, December 17. It is strongly urged that this annual event shall not be looked upon as an extra service at this busy season, but as the one union Christmas service of the churches and the community, to which everyone goes—the only one of its kind throughout the year.

Baked Bean Supper

Nearly 150 persons sat down to the baked bean supper served by Indian Ridge lodge of Rebekahs on Saturday evening and enjoyed the menu consisting of baked beans, relishes, cabbage salad, potato salad, rolls, coffee, pies and doughnuts. The committee in charge were: Mrs. Carl Elander, Mrs. Raymond Brickett, Miss Mary Fowler, Mrs. Samuel Wormald, Mrs. William Faulkner, Mrs. James Skea, Mrs. F. S. Valentine, Mrs. Hedley Davidson, Mrs. Cleveland Milnes, Mrs. James Walker, Mrs. Frank Smith, Donald Laurie and William Brown, and they were assisted by Miss Grace Higgins and Mrs. J. Dunwoodie.

Andover Man Found Dead at Hotel

The dead body of William Burr, 21-year-old son of A. B. Burr of West Andover, was discovered Saturday morning in a room in the Bristol hotel on Essex street, Lawrence, formerly the Needham hotel. A bullet hole through his head and discovery of a revolver beneath the bed told the story, according to police, that suicide caused death.

John Kendall, clerk at the hotel, entered the room for laundry Saturday and made the discovery. Burr hired a room at the hotel Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock and apparently retired about 10 o'clock that night. At what hour the suicide occurred is unknown, as the revolver was equipped with a silencer. Medical Examiner Dow gave suicide as the cause of death. A note to relatives was left by the dead youth. He was born in West Andover. He is survived by his father, A. B. Burr; a brother, Edward A., three sisters: Mrs. Herbert Rose of Walpole, N. H., Mrs. Charles Moran, and Eva Burr of Walpole, N. H.

Serious Fire Averted

Sparks from a portable engine used in road construction work near the Old Abbot Homestead at the corner of Argilla road and Andover street set the barn on fire Saturday morning and if it had not been for the prompt arrival of the fire department the consequences would have been serious. The blaze was confined to the roof of the barn and was extinguished before it had gained any headway. There were 50 tons of hay and 20 head of cattle in the barn.

Thrown From Motorcycle

Charles McCarthy, brother of Olin McCarthy, the World war veteran, who recently died, suffered bruises to his head and body when he was thrown from a motorcycle on which he was riding Sunday noon.

The accident happened at the corner of Summer and Whittier streets. Charles was riding the cycle and his younger brother, William, was in the side-car. They were coming down Summer street and as they made the turn into Whittier a tire exploded, causing the machine to turn turtle. Both occupants were thrown out with great force, and the machine brought up against a big tree.

William McCarthy sustained injuries to his nose and both he and Charles were badly bruised. The former was taken into a passing auto and received medical attention. The cycle was very much damaged.

Will Organize Court Catholics D. of A.

A meeting of the women of St. Augustine's parish will be held in Knights of Columbus hall, next Thursday evening when steps will be taken to form a court of the Catholic Daughters of America. Mrs. J. J. Salmon of Cambridge, state regent, will be present and institute the court. There are a number of the women of the parish now members of the order in Lawrence and a successful court here is assured.

Not Philanthropy— Just Good Business

Once in a while a skeptical friend eyes me doubtfully when I tell him he can save time and money if he will make his toll calls on a station-to-station basis. When I ask him to speak out, he tells me frankly that he is wondering why I am recommending something that will decrease our toll revenue. The fact is, as I explain to him, I expect that his compliance with my suggestion will increase our toll revenue and save us time and money, too.

Here's why: Station-to-Station toll service is simply an extension of the "call by number" practice of local service. A few years ago we extended this "call by number" practice to short-haul toll calls—call of 15 to 25 miles. It worked so successfully that we are now applying that practice to toll calls to any point in the country. Over 80 per cent of our toll business is now being handled in this way.

It enables us to handle a larger number of calls over a given circuit, thus saving construction costs. It enables us to save the time of operators, thus saving operating costs. We can and do, therefore, pass on to subscribers a saving of at least 20 per cent, and up to 75 per cent in many cases, on toll calls made on the station-to-station basis as against the old-fashioned person-to-person method.

But my friend says: "I want to talk with Mr. So-and-so, and he may be out." That contingency is worth considering, of course. However, when I ask: "Where would you expect to find Mr. So-and-so during business hours?" my friend unhesitatingly replies: "Why, at his office"—or at his bank or his factory as the case may be. Of course, that's where a business man usually is found these days—sticking pretty close to his business.

That's why our station-to-station method of handling toll calls has grown so rapidly in the favor of business men who have tested it and found that it would—and does—save them time and money. And because it makes it easy for them to do business—because it is speedier and more economical than the old method—they have given us more and more of their business to handle. It's not philanthropy with us, therefore—it's good business to recommend station-to-station toll service.

Test it for yourself. Make a call for the number or the listed name of some person or concern, simply adding that you will talk with anyone, to indicate that you desire the station-to-station rate, and see if you are not able to reach the person you want, or someone who can satisfactorily act for him.

If you don't know the number, simply give the name and address and our toll operators will make the connection so quickly you will be surprised and pleased at the result.

Fore River 5; Shawshoens 0

The visit of Shawshoens to Quincy to play the Shipbuilders was very disastrous from a Shawshoens point of view as they suffered the worst defeat of the season, being well beaten by five goals to nothing. In the first half the home team scored three goals and had most of the play. The second half was more evenly contested but Fore River added two more goals and ran out easy winners by five goals to nothing.

A. W. CO. FIELD DAY

Wood Mill Gains Possession of William M. Wood Cup at Annual Event Under Auspices of Overseers Associations.

The beautiful cup given by William M. Wood will remain in the possession of the Wood Mill for one year as that mill came out first in the field events held on last Saturday afternoon on Balmoral Field. The meet was under the direction of the Overseers' associations of the five mills of the American Woolen company in this vicinity: Wood, Washington, Ayer and Prospect Mills of Lawrence, and the Shawshoens Mills at Shawshoens Village.

The flags of several nations were placed along the front of the grandstand with each national group. The parade of colors was a striking picture. A real Penobscot Indian was present in the full dress of his tribe, John Nelson of Oldtown, Maine, who is employed as a weaver in the Ounegan mills of the American Woolen company. There was also a representative of the Orient in the person of W. M. Lee of Pittsfield, Maine, who is employed in the Pioneer mills of the company. He was also in the dress of his country. Those who carried the flags in the parade of colors were: Scotch, Gertrude McQuade; English, Marie Kenney; Spanish, Mabel Fanning; German, Lillian Schoeps; Lithuanian, Alice Wilcot; Polish, Helen Janos; Italian, Rose Defusco; Syrian, Anna Beta; French, Blanche Laperio; Russian, Lottie Burzio; Mexican, Lucia Martine.

The American Woolen company band under the direction of Reinhardt Meyer, gave a fine concert throughout the afternoon. The American Woolen company chorus sang many of the popular songs and were well received. Frank Dowd and William Glendye directed and Ernest Gaudes was pianist. The members of the chorus were Irene Demers, Blanche Laperio, Anna Hyland, Mae Crawford, Ella Murphy, Laura Dube, Mary Donlan, Sarah Christian, Helen McManus, Joseph Brimmer, Frank Dooley, John A. Melvin, Jerome Donovan, Charles E. Smith, Brian Reid, Howard F. Mulcahy, Fred Biase, Jeremiah T. Connors, Benjamin Reid, Benjamin Abbot, Joseph Glendye and Joseph Murphy.

There were circus clowns who did stunts and kept everyone laughing. They were: Elmer Daniels, Nick Quaguetta, Alec Jobe, John Foster, Terry Page and Ray Kress.

Every precaution was taken to ensure the safety of the large gathering and the following served on the safety committee: Eli Furness, Frank Wolfendale, Emil Lang, Jane Dagneas, Harry Bloom, Allison Colby, Henry Dean, Joseph Ladd, Arthur Mell, Robert Colley, Carmela Foley, Carmela Matters, Josephine Conway, John Mosley, James Bellwood, Tony Facella, Tony Torressi, Robert Crockett, Emma Martel, Elward Kelley, Bert Jagger.

There was also an advisory board composed of: Jacob Hagopian, Lucien Lacquart, Adam Danner, Najeb Hassrouni, Ferdinand Barkevilt, Marcel Kozalka, Steve Lopiano, Eli Furness, Lillian Schoeps, Sophie Tuerber, Emma, Libby Emmet, Stella Kisli, Irene Demers, Annie Idrey, Louise De Reina, Johanna Carpenita, Catherine Donahue.

The judges from the Overseers' association were as follows: Harry Tetler, Prospect Mills; James P. Flynn, Washington Mills; Benjamin Whitehead, Wood Mill; Harry Wilkinson, Ayer Mill; Frank Horne, Prospect Mills; Seva Howes, Shawshoens Mills.

Harry S. Pratt of the Homestead Association acted as starter and Howard O. Frye, editor of the Booster, was clerk of the course, while Daniel F. Daly, also of the Booster office was announcer. Thomas Ryan of the Washington Mill Warehouse was general chairman in charge of the affair.

During the afternoon, Pipe Major William White and Pipe Sergeant Kinnaird of the Clan McPherson band played the martial airs of Scotland. Luth confessed to not being only "could with the kilt, but kilt with could."

During the afternoon Blanche Laperio gave a butterfly dance.

Ignatius MacNulty, was appointed by the overseers to take charge of awarding the prizes and he had the following assisting him: Mrs. George F. Archibald, Washington; Rose Mercier, Wood; Harriet Elliott, Ayer; and Alice Wilcot, Prospect Mills.

The total number of points scored were as follows: Wood 72, Washington 34, Shawshoens 27, Ayer 3, Prospect 5.

The list of entries included races of all sorts ending with a tug of war between the Shawshoens and Washington Mills which resulted in a victory for the former team.

The various events follow:

One-half mile run for men—Charles Robinson, Washington; prize, clock; Harold Driscoll, Wood; military set.

One-quarter mile for women—Mary Murphy, Washington, set of silver; Bertha Schneider, Wood; prize, one-half dozen fruit knives.

One-quarter mile for men—Gilbert Talmadge, Wood; prize, silver chest; Morris Desprez, Wood; carving set.

220-yard final—Frank Kane, Wood; prize, silver pitcher; John Morris, Wood; carving set.

50-yards for women—Margaret Gage, Washington; aluminum dish; Nellie Ing-ham, Shawshoens, writing set.

100-yard dash for men—Chris O'Leary, Wood; prize, silver percolator; Norbart Bonitz, Wood, military set.

High jump, women—Elsie Marcus, Wood; prize, percolator; Roy Parsons, Shawshoens, silver dish.

Broad jump, men—Tom Phillips, Wood; distance, 18 ft. 5 in.; prize, casserole; Roy Parsons, Shawshoens, 18 ft. 1 in.; prize, silver plate.

Children's events:
Boys' race, Albert Durant, Prospect; John Wilson, Wood.
Girls' race—Mildred Howard, Shawshoens; Catherine Riley, Shawshoens.

Fat men's race—Charles Meseth, Wood, razor; Peter Callery, Wood, pie dish.

Wedding

BARTON—BELL

In St. Stephen's church, Cohasset, Monday afternoon in the presence of the immediate families, Miss Mary Bell, overseas nurse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Bell, of 413 North Main street, and James Barton, Jr., ex-service man, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barton of Quincy were united in marriage by Rev. H. Usher Munro, formerly pastor of St. Paul's church, North Andover. The bride, who was attended by her sister, Miss Ruth Bell, wore a dress of gray canton crepe with hat to match and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. The bridesmaid wore jade green canton crepe and carried Ophelia roses. Nathaniel Stevens Barton, brother of the groom, was best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Barton left on a wedding trip. On their return they will reside at 86 Phipps street, Quincy.

The bride is well known, being a graduate of the Lawrence General hospital and was connected with the Child Welfare department on Jackson street after graduation. She served overseas as a Red Cross nurse for over a year at base hospital No. 7, Joue le Tour and at Tours. She was also at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, for six months. At the close of the war she organized the Claremont, N. H. Red Cross, center and until recently was with the Instructing District Nurses Association in Boston.

The groom served overseas as a sergeant in Co. C, 9th Inf., Second Division, and fought through the Argonne. He was gassed and wounded, receiving the Croix de Guerre, from the French for bravery in the Quency fire department and in line for a lieutenantcy.

Shawshoens Women's Club

The Shawshoens Village Women's club will hold their regular monthly meeting on Monday evening, November 6. Miss Helen Osgood of Lowell will give readings of original monologues and poems. Miss Olga Sjostrom will assist at the piano. This is expected to be a very interesting meeting and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

BECOMES TENNIS CHAMP

William J. McGrath of Kensington Street Defeats Harold Roberts in Lawrence Canoe Club Finals.

William J. McGrath of Kensington street won the tennis championship of the Lawrence Canoe club Sunday when he defeated Harold Roberts in the club championship finals. By virtue of his win he holds a leg on the Kay-Cray trophy which must be won three years before it becomes the permanent possession of any of the participants in the championship matches.

McGrath was at his best in the match of Sunday and carried off three sets, 6-4; 6-3; and 6-3. The weather conditions were not entirely favorable at the opening of the match, a chill breeze affecting the play of both men, but when they got warmed up they displayed some fine work. McGrath's play was especially effective. His serving was fast, and at times completely baffled his opponent.

Hallowe'en Party at Manor

About 150 were present at the Hallowe'en party given by the Shawshoens Manor on Tuesday evening, the guests coming from New York, Boston, Providence, Haverhill, Lowell, Andover and Lawrence. The decorations which were in keeping with the occasion, were very beautiful and artistically arranged and the favors were a feature of the evening. The guests began to arrive at 7 o'clock and an excellent dinner was served from that hour. Considerable amusement was created by the drawing of numbered tickets for a Ford car which was won by David R. Lawson of Andover. Joseph DeAcutis, manager of the Manor, after an appropriate address, presented him with a toy automobile.

Sinclair's Balmoral orchestra furnished excellent music. The enviable reputation for hospitality which the Shawshoens Manor has gained, is bound to be increased by the success of this affair.

Parent-Teacher Association Meets

The Parent-Teacher Association of Shawshoens met on Wednesday evening in the Richardson school. Mrs. Helen Hovey of Haverhill, state counselor, gave a very interesting talk on Child Welfare. Mrs. French, a member of the Andover school board, gave a short talk and suggested the forming of a library for the children, and to start this donated two books. Henry C. Sanborn, superintendent of schools in Andover, also spoke and refreshments were served by Mrs. Clarence W. Coolidge. The next meeting will be held the first Wednesday in December.

Free Church Pastor Speaks at Community Service

Rev. A. S. Wheelock, pastor of the Free church, was the speaker at the Shawshoens Community services on Sunday evening in Post Office hall. He took for his subject Acts 2: 2 — "They were filled with the Holy Spirit." "Father, lead me by Thy Hand" was sung by the following trio: William Crowe, Miss Jean Dundas and Miss Mary Scott, all of Andover.

Rev. Newman Matthews of the West church will be the speaker on next Sunday evening.

British and Colonial Veterans Meet

The British and Colonial War Veterans Social club met Thursday evening in Post Office hall with David Archibald in the chair. The club voted to hold a minstrel show in the Cafeteria hall on Thanksgiving eve and tickets will go on sale soon. Chamley's orchestra will provide music for the dancing after the show.

Shawshoens Mill League

The Shipping Department took three points from the Office team on Friday evening in the Shawshoens Mill league. H. Keith of the Shipping team was high man with 293. The Carding lost three to the Carpenters. Lassey had a single of 104 and high triple with 291.

Four teams in the Shawshoens Mill league bowled on Tuesday night on the Shawshoens alleys. The Machinists lost three points to the Shippers and the Electricians lost four to the Carders. Kuths of the Shippers had high single with 108.

Given Farewell Party

A pleasant surprise party was tendered Miss Virginia MacKnight last evening at the home of Mrs. W. A. Gabeler on Warwick street. Mrs. MacKnight who has been spending the year in Shawshoens Village with her aunt, Mrs. Horace Bloombergh, returns next week to her home in Atlanta, Georgia.

Miss MacKnight entertained the guests by singing a group of songs, her accompaniments being played by Miss Martha Smith. Later in the evening when she went out into the dining room Miss MacKnight was quite overwhelmed to discover that the beautiful centerpiece of evergreen and red berries concealed a receptacle filled with gifts from her friends which will remind her of the pleasant year spent in Shawshoens.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. Among those present were: Mrs. Hubert A. Smith, Mrs. Sidney Paine, Mrs. Lake, Miss Elva Lake, Mrs. Charles Littlefield, Miss Ella Littlefield, Mrs. George Howard Gerrish, Mrs. Leonard Little, Mrs. Horace Bloombergh and Miss Martha Smith. Miss MacKnight has made many friends in Andover where she has most generously entertained with vocal and instrumental music at church and club affairs. Her last public appearance was at the Rainbow pagant where she delighted her audience with the "Song of the Inn Keeper's Daughter."

Mrs. Douglas Donald is visiting relatives in Bradford.
